GAVE GUARD $125

One of Last Acts Was to Provide for Thanksgiving Dinner of Men Who Stand Vigil Over Tomb of Husband

(By the Associated Press)
Marion, O., Nov. 23.—Thousands of neighbors and friends today passed the bier of Mrs. Florence Kling Harding to pay their last respects. Since early morning, when a line formed at the Long Shore home here, where the body of the former first lady of the land repose, a steady stream of people passed in and out. It was a silent, reverent crowd, mostly people who had known the Hardings when they were struggling newspaper folks and who had watched their political fortunes rise, until one March day in 1921 they bade them farewell as they left for the presidential inauguration ceremonies in Washington.

The public was permitted to view the remains only after repeated requests had been made to the family. Decision was not reached until it was suggested that "Mrs. Harding never denied the public a privilege that she thought belong to them."

Newspaper Women Pass Bier

One of the first to pass the bier was "Uncle Charley" Patton, until recently White House ground keeper. When the Hardings were leaving Marion in 1921, Mr. Harding noticed the sorrowful look of "Uncle Charley," who faithfully had kept the grounds about the Harding home clean during the 1920 front-porch campaign.

"What's the matter, Uncle Charley?" Mr. Harding asked.

"I hate to be left behind."

"Pack up your grip I have a ticket for you, and you are going to Washington with us," Mr. Harding said. And that night when the "presidential" left Marion, Uncle Charley was aboard. Dr. G. T. Harding, aged 70, who had been a member of the board of the Long Shore home for the first time today. "She was a splendid woman," Dr. Harding said.

Delegates of the Ohio Association of Newspaper Women in session here, went to the Long Shore home in a body this afternoon and as they passed the casket each laid a pink carnation at the feet of Mrs. Harding, who was a member of the association.

Bought Guard's Thanksgiving Dinner

Mrs. Harding reclines slightly on her right side. She is dressed in white. Her hair is almost snow white. She wears her customary nose glasses, and a band of white tulle is around her neck.

Flowers sent by President Coolidge rest at the foot of the casket. So many floral pieces have arrived that it has been necessary to place scores on the front porch of the home.

It became known today that one of Mrs. Harding's last acts was the gift of $125 to the soldiers on guard at Mr. Harding's tomb to provide them with a Thanksgiving dinner.

The funeral cortège, following services at Epworth Methodist church tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, will move from the church to the cemetery over the same route as that taken when President Harding was en- tombed.

The services will be in charge of the Rev. Dr. Jessie Swank of Epworth church, assisted by the Rev. W. Landes, pastor of Trinity Baptist church.

MAN AND WOMAN KILLED IN CRASH

Were Trying to Land Airplane When Craft Loses Wings With Army Machine

Cloverfield, Santa Monica, Cal., Nov. 23.—A man and a woman were killed and two other persons were seriously injured here today when the airplane in which they were flying collided in mid-air with another machine.

The dead, Ralph Johnson and Miss Ruth G. Wilson, both of Pasadena, were about to make a landing in their commercial plane when it collided with another machine piloted by Leslie K. Traphiser, a lieutenant in the Army air service. Traphiser and his passenger, Sergeant Gilbert H. McCormick, of the army air service, were taken to a hospital in Sawtelle, where it was announced that they had a 50-50 chance to recover.

Speculators said that the two planes attempted to collide into each other, and then fell 24 feet to earth with wings broken. Both machines were completely wrecked.

TWO KILLED NEARLY ALONE

New York, Nov. 23.—Richard G. Davis, 21, and Andrew J. Paine, 20, were killed when their truck, originally intended only for a free-fall flight in a biplane, N. J., burst a wing. Neither was a participant in the flight, which was being shot while attempting to dodge the volley of lead exchanged by a line of biplane bombers and their machine gunners.

Actual Number of Arrests Increases—Population Grows—Most of Arrests for Violation of Traffic Statutes

New York, Nov. 23.—A report of the coal shortage committee of the American Engineering council, made public today by James Hartness, president of the organization, outlines a series of community plans by which the principal cities of the country may, through a system of uniform monthly shipments, avoid coal famine. Mr. Hartness said the survey on which the report is based has revealed that storage is the remedy for the nation's coal troubles.

The committee recommends, according to the report, that all consumers purchase their coal on an annual contract for yearly requirements, with a provision that the coal be delivered in equal allotments. Consumers are urged to provide storage facilities to meet the terms on such a contract.

The recommendations are based on the finding that the purchase of coal on a monthly delivery basis will enable coal mines to inaugurate and maintain a regular production schedule and make it possible for carriers to plan definitely both schedules and equipment for a uniform movement of coal.

"A reduction in the price of coal will be made possible," the report states, "by more regular schedules of production and transportation and by elimination of peak demands in the winter months when the costs of both production and transportation are the highest.

The survey, which the league declares is the most extensive ever made of the subject, is based on figures from the police departments of 300 of the country's leading cities and the District of Columbia, every state except North Carolina and Oklahoma being represented. It covers the total number of arrests for all causes in the last four years prior to prohibition and the first four years of prohibition.

The railroads have more to gain by storing coal than any other class of consumers," the report continues.

"They should store their own coal on such a scale and at such times as to obviate the movement of company or non-revenue producing coal, during the period when there is a heavy demand for the transportation of revenue producing freight."

ARREST OF SANDS EXPECTED SHORTLY

Cue to Missing "Bean King" Found in Apprehension of Head Bookkeeper

Huntington, Ind., Nov. 23.—The clue which ultimately may lead to the capture of the bankrupt Louis E. Sands company, Inc., of Albion, N. Y., was obtained by Chicago detectives with the arrest here last Saturday night of Mrs. Grace Gerkes of Albion, head bookkeeper for Sands. Mrs. Gerkes is alleged by detectives to have forged the spurious warehouse receipts and bills of lading with which Sands is said to have used the 28 subsidiary corporations of the Sands company in perpetrating his alleged $4,000,000 fraud.

Mrs. Gerkes was arrested after she disappeared from Albion on September 15 and after a chase by detectives which led into Canada, Mexico and back to the United States. It was through information obtained from Mrs. Gerkes that the whereabouts of Sands was learned. Sands had been missing since September 6. Detectives, who refused to give out any information about the whereabouts of Sands, declared they expect to have him in custody within a short time.

Mrs. Gerkes was taken to Buffalo, N. Y., by detectives and will later be taken to Albion where a charge of second degree forgery awaits her.

DIVINE GUIDANCE ASKED TO FIND WOMAN'S SLAYER

Columbus, O., Nov. 23.—Divine guidance was called upon today to direct authorities in bringing to justice the "real culprit" who caused the death of Mrs. Addie Sheatsley, 56, whose body was found Monday by her husband, Rev. C. V. Sheatsley, in the furnace of the parsonage of Christ Evangelical Lutheran church, in a resolution adopted by members of the congregation.

The resolution also expressed "unqualified confidence in the integrity and nobility of character" of Rev. Sheatsley, who expressed to County Prosecutor John R. King, his conviction that his wife took her life by casting herself into the furnace after becoming violently insane.

Prosecutor Went Divorce Notice, However—Awaiting Complete Report from Chemist

Columbus, O., Nov. 23.—County Prosecutor John R. King tonight announced he had "struck a hot trail" in the Sheatsley case today. He was unwilling to discuss the nature of his discovery.

Prosecutor King also is awaiting the complete report of Chemist Long, who in a preliminary report declared Mrs. Sheatsley was dead when she entered the furnace. He came to this conclusion, he said, because no trace of carbon monoxide poisoning was found in the blood taken from the lungs. Had she breathed after entering the furnace, the lungs would have become filled with the carbon monoxide, which the blood would have absorbed, he said.

Mr. King's efforts during the next few days will center upon what transpired the day of the tragedy in the Sheatsley home during three-quarters of an hour after Clarence, the 16-year-old son, left at 1:30 p. m., and 12:15 p. m., when C. O. Strader, delivery man for local bakery, attempted to arouse someone at the house. Forty-five minutes later E. E. Bridgewater, a student at Capital university, went to the house to return a book, he said, to the front door to the rear.

The body was found by Rev. Sheatsley after 5 o'clock when he returned from a trip to the city.

A partial report of the pathological examination of vital organs being made by Dr. E. M. Brundage, may be submitted to the prosecutor tomorrow. Mr. Brundage's complete report may not be made for a week, according to Mr. King.

It is true that the number of arrests of the "dry" period in the 300 cities is greater than the number for the "wet." It is stated in the report, "but when analyzed in connection with the increase in population, which is 5,000,000, the findings are contrary to the accepted belief that we are growing more criminal."

"Dry" Regime Shows Advantage.

The actual decrease in arrests from drunkenness since the Volstead act went into effect a 42.3 per cent for the 300 cities, or a million less cases of drunkenness each year than there were in the "wet" period for the whole nation. Where formerly drunk cases made up 32.5 per cent of the total arrests in the country, they have now been cut to 18.4 per cent.

From 1913 to 1916 there was a yearly average of 58,946 people arrested for all causes out of every million of population. The total for 300 cities was 1,756,078. During the first four years of prohibition, arrests for all cases were 2,040,700, or 58,551 per million population. The population in these cities had increased 6,000,000 during the four years. Applying this ratio of increase to the entire population we have a yearly total of nearly 10,000 less arrests during the "dry" period than during the "wet".

Costs $84 to Arrest Drunk.

A failure to take into consideration all the surrounding circumstances is largely responsible for much talk about increase of crime throughout the country. Police records show that the greatest single factor in arrests today is the automobile, especially in the big cities. The largest number of arrests are generally for violation of traffic laws and ordinances.

"The savings to the states that can be pointed to directly in connection with our crime situation are bigger today than they were before prohibition. The million less drunk arrests of each of which costs the police department alone $34, had resulted in savings from $95,000,000 to $100,000,000 yearly. Adding to this the additional cost of trial and detention, this amount could be doubled and yet be a conservative estimate."

SMOKE SCREEN EMPLOYED BY BOOTLEGGERS IN FLIGHT

Malone, Nov. 23.—A powerful late model motor car sped past Troop B barracks here today and just as the officers were to give it a close inspection, a dense impenetrable haze cloud of heavy smoke belched from the speeding motor car's exhaust, the smoke screen hiding the barracks completely from view.

It was a demonstration of the latest equipment used by super-bootleggers, made with a captured car by the authorities here. The smoke screen was ingeniously caused by a fire extinguisher filled with some chemical. The pump was bolted to the floor of the auto and the nozzle collected with a tube running to the exhaust chamber. When the bootleg saw a pursuing car he had simply to pump one or two charges of the heavy volatile chemical into the exhaust pipe to effectively lay a dense screen between himself and the officers.

Admits No Responsibility.

The regal again expressed sorrow and horror at the murder of Major General Stack, but said the Egyptian government would not admit that it was in any way responsible; neither could it admit that the crime was the natural result of the political campaign. Nevertheless, the government agreed to the payment of the indemnity demanded.

Continuing, the note quoted Article 46 of the constitution in reference to the Sudan by which the king is commander-in-chief of the army. It said the Gezira irrigation demand, was to say the least, premature, and remarked that Great Britain always had promised that an increased cotton acreage would be arranged under an accord taking cognizance of Egyptian's agricultural interests.

The Egyptian government further maintained that law No. 38 which is a diplomatic agreement, regulated matters concerning foreign officials, and said that, in any case it could not reply in detail on this point, since the British note did not specify what specifications were desired.

FAMOUS REDHEADS

Red heads are in fashion this year, to the gridiron success of one Harold Grange of Illinois—called by many experts the greatest player who ever lived. But Red isn't the first sorrel-topped player to achieve widespread fame on the gridiron. Although his feats of speed and skill have eclipsed those of any other player in the last decade, three other red heads acquired a part of the football spotlight only second to that occupied by the Illinois buck.

The names of Red Barron of Georgia Tech, Red Roberts of Centre, and Brick Muller of California still get a cheer wherever they are mentioned—each was a star of the first magnitude, and each was honored on various all-American teams. Brick Muller and Red Roberts were ends, while Red Barron was a fullback. Red jumped into fame in the New Year's Day game with Ohio State at Hidden Money Found.

In a load of stone which had been drawn by the H. M. Julland farm in Greens, Saturday, for sub base material on Water street road, the workmen found a tin can which contained six or seven dollars in small change, some trinkets and a small book of a Bingham O'Leary. The book showed deposits of about $150, only a portion of which appears to have been drawn out. Mr. O'Leary lived near the west side of the Julland farm about 60 years ago, and was at times employed on the farm. He has been dead for many years.

The bank book was issued by the Chenango Valley Savings Bank, over 50 years ago. It is now in the possession of Joseph Barton of Greens, who will surrender it to anyone who has the proper authority to receive it. — Chenango American.

Rain cut the Harvard-Yale attendance to 75,000. In the mid-west the Iowa-Michigan clash drew 42,000; Chicago-Wisconsin, 32,000; and Notre Dame-Northwestern, 25,000.

YALE BEATS HARVARD

DUCKY POND GETS FIRST OF THREE TOUCHDOWNS FOR BLUE, GIVING LEAD THAT WAS NEVER RELINQUISHED.

Gehrke, through sheer gameness on field ankle-deep in mud, threw big score late blue—Syracuse's 7 to 5 win over Colgate in line with pre-game calculations, although Tryon, one of leading scorers to Yale, never got chance to larvae, being constantly watched by opponents.

(By the Associated Press)

New York, Nov. 23.—Yale sailed forth upon the crest of the flood.

Mid-caked, rocking sons of old Eli staggered out of the tap-danced bowl in darkness Saturday afternoon undefeated for the year and victorious over the ancient enemy from Cambridge by ploughing through ankle-deep mud for three touchdownd after the close had seemed lost in the first half of the battle.

Ducky Pond, Yale half-back, who splashed through a submerged Harvard stadium in 1923 to cross the crimson goal line for Yale's first touchdown there in many seasons, repeated his performance in New Haven waters for the score that gave his team the lead, never to be relinquished. Two teammates later followed his example.

One hero was developed by Harvard in the most crushing football season the men of Fisher have ever undergone. Gehrike, injured in previous battles, returned to offer his last effort against an overpowering enemy and for a time it seemed that the brilliant Crimson backfield man would win the day by sheer gameness. When the second period ended Gehrike had thrown out a pass into the Yale camp as the bowl had seldom witnessed. Favorites from all angles, the Jones eleven was struggling against 6 to 0 odds, the result of two field goals by the Cambridge cripple.

Syracuse's Victory Anticipated.

But the powerful Fisher man also played his part in the fumbles that gave Yale opportunities that meant victory. Yale took advantage of them and won, 19 to 6.

With the victory went a high place in eastern football, by the side of Dartmouth, mighty team out of New Hampshire, and for the second straight year the Jones-coached squad has failed to taste defeat. It has been tied this season by Dartmouth and Army. Harvard plunged into the lowest depths it has known, scoring but 61 points throughout its eight games to 78 for its opponents.

Rutgers failed to realize its hope for football greatness when it fell before Bucknell in sea of mud at Philadelphia.

Lafayette returned to power and hammered down formidable Lehigh, an opening spurt in which Chicknoki crossed the line for six points deciding the issue. It was Lehigh's first defeat of the year.

Holy Cross rolled up the highest total of the day, scoring 52 points against Canisius' 7. Boston college buried Vermont, 23 to 2; Penn State defeated Marietta, 23 to 6; Brown conquered New Hampshire State by 21 to 6, and the Massachusetts Aggies were caught in a 7 to 7 deadlock.

Syracuse's victory over Colgate, 7 to 3, met with pregame calculations. Rain and mud hampered the players. McBride of Syracuse scored the only touchdown of the game. Tryon, speedy Hamilton back who is among the leading scorers in the east, was closely watched throughout the contest, and failed to escape the Syracuse forwards in his attempts to add long sprints for touchdowns to his enviable record.

These crisp, cold mornings, what must a breakfast be like to those who deny themselves the warmth and refreshment of a cup of Oatmeal coffee. —advt 6.

Now Truly's Thin Enough for Stage Again

TRULY, IN HER PRIME. — TRULY, BEFORE THE OPERA- TION. — TRULY, AS SHE IS TODAY.

Thirty years ago Truly Shattuck was the toast of Broadway. But as the years crept on, her sylph-like figure lost its graceful curves. Her waistline jumped from 32 to 52 inches, and she tipped the scales at 202 pounds. Diet as she would her avordupois would not drop off. And Truly "faded out." Then, by chance, she heard of the work by Dr. Henry J. Schleson, Chicago plastic surgeon. She went to him and he agreed to trim her. Sixty-nine pounds of fatty tissue were cut off. Her double chin was made single and her face underwent a thorough remodeling. Now stage offers are coming to Truly again.

CIRCUS AT HIGH SCHOOL

UNADILLA BOYS AND GIRLS ROMP AT WILL IN AUDITORIUM

Event a Notable Gathering of Specialties and Sensational Stunts With Crowd Having Much Fun and Frolic—Large Sum Realized For

Entertainment to Students

Unadilla, Nov. 23.—On Friday evening for the first time since the High school building was erected the boys and girls had an opportunity to blow horns, talk about freely, throw confetti streamers and eat peanuts, popcorn and candy in the auditorium and the unusual privilege was enjoyed to the utmost. The occasion was the circus announced for that evening and it was a great success. Before the hour of opening, 7:30 o'clock, a large crowd had gathered and it became necessary to lock the doors to permit the performers to don their costumes and get the setting ready and in all about 400 were in attendance.

The program announced a "Three Ring Show." The Italian band rendered music ("C") between the acts, with instruments ranging from the piano and violin to accordions and banjoistic fiddle, while the leader beat time with a rolling pin.

The parade of all performers was as large as the size of the stage permitted. Misses Lucia Moore and Gertie Smith, acrobats, dressed to the nines, did some surprising stunts and the Gold Dust Twins, Misses Clara Frear and Margaret Loos, played a piano solo with skill and expression. Miss Alta Bell gave a good exhibition of tight rope walking and Miss Betty Gregory, as Farlova, was a graceful tea dancer.

One number, announced as "The Circus of the Civil War," presented two colored gents as the curtain rose and their colleagues and songs, which were principally about the show, were told. Marian Finkle and Robert

Hughson took the characters and they sang well the "Levee Song" and "Come Down to the Circus."

The museum contained several amusing features and others of genuine historic interest. Included in the latter were the epauletts and sword of the late Captain Robert Hughson and also his discharge from the government service after the close of the Civil war. There were also many old pieces of interest.

An evening of pure wholesome fun for all resulted and the treasury received an unexpectedly large sum which will be used in defraying the expenses of the class on an Easter trip to Washington, D. C.

OLDEST LAURENS RESIDENT

Isaac VanWormer, Who Helped Build Albany & Susquehanna Railroad, Dies Sunday Morning—Funeral Wednesday

Laurens, Nov. 23.—Probably the oldest resident of the town of Laurens was Isaac J. VanWormer, who died at 115 years of age this morning at the home of his son, his daughter, Mrs. Melvin Gurnee, who was 90 years of age. He was born more than 90 years ago, and his death was due to the infirmities of age, but he was a sturdy, active man, and a good specimen of a man. AMERICA'S TRADE RECORD.

Announcement from the Bureau of Commerce at Washington indicate that the excess of American exports over imports, which were $673,000,000 for the ten months up to November, will reach at least the staggering total of $200,000,000 before the close of the year, making the total for the dozen years since the opening of the World war up to the enormous total of twenty-two billions of dollars.

Prior to the war, says the trade record of the National City Bank of New York, our annual excess of exports over imports seldom passed the $100-million-dollar line. During the war period the exports of course greatly advanced, but they slowed down in an excess of $11 millions in 1922 and $74,000,000 in 1923. This was evidently low tide in the movement of exports, for the present year will very much more than double it, and it is believed that it may be as great as in both the two previous years, and far in excess of any year prior to the war.

These figures will be of interest to Americans generally, since they indicate a continued, and in fact an increasing demand for our products, which should mean better prices and a general era of prosperity.

The United States is one of an extremely limited number of countries enjoying continuously a "favorable trade balance" or excess of exports, the other principal countries of the world in which exports exceed imports being Argentina, Brazil, Uruguay, Peru, Columbia, Cuba, Canada, India, the Dutch East Indies, Australia, Siam, New Zealand, the Philippines, and Egypt, and of these one is an American and five are British possessions.

Altogether these figures, which have been carefully compiled, are among the reasons why the United States should consider the present a year of Thanksgiving.

PEOPLE'S HEALTHIER.

The State Department of Health has sent out a circular to health officers and the press of the state which should be of interest, and also of satisfaction to everybody, since it clearly indicates an increasing birth rate, a lower death rate and a smaller number of communicable diseases. The mortality rate in September, for example, was on the annual basis of 11.1 per 1,000 of population, which is 20 per cent below the figure of ten years ago. In other words, had the same death rate prevailed as in 1914, there would have been 2,700 more deaths. Death of children were also much less numerous since, of those under five years there were but 1,668 in September of this year, while in September, 1914 there were 3,021.

For these results State Commissioner Nicoll points out several specific reasons, among them being better milk, better living conditions, more efficient sanitation and in general, better knowledge of how to live. The population of the country increases, outside of immigration, because more children are being born, more of them survive and adult people are living longer than was the case only a few years ago.

THE GUIDE POST—BY
Henry and Tertius VanDyke

Religion Difficult and Easy

—How Many Are Saved?

Lord are there few that are saved?

—Luke 13:23.

It seems to me that the New Testament represents salvation as the easiest and most difficult thing in the world.

On this subject I shall try to read the guide post through this week.

The question which some one asked of Christ when he was journeying on foot to Jerusalem is characteristic and thoroughly modern in tone.

It concerns quantity rather than quality.

How many are saved?

Give us the numbers.

What are the statistics?

How many conversions this year?

What are the percentage of male and female, natives and foreigners, Indians and adults?

With statistics like this we are overwhelmed nowadays.

They come to us by every road.

"Surveys" are superfluous.

They mean little or nothing.

The overhead cost of preparing printing, and mailing them is mostly wasted.

Christ turned absolutely away from this question of statistics.

He refused to answer it.

He treated it as unimportant.

"What becomes of it years?" he said in effect to his questioner. "How many are saved?"

"Our duty is simply to do your best, to strive to cover it by the narrow door."

"If you do this, there will be open reward, another."

"There is no room for human boasting."

"There is no room for boasting."

CARS IN COLLISION.

Dr. F. L. Winsor of Laurens Sights Hurt in Mishap.

A Ford coupe and Dodge roadster were wrecked Friday night in a collision which took place near the bridge this side of the village of Laurens and Dr. F. L. Winsor of Laurens, who was driving the coupe was bruised about the face. The Dodge car was driven by A. D. Bailey of Richfield Springs.

According to reports, it is said the accident occurred as the two machines approached from opposite directions.

Dr. Winsor is said to have seen the Bailey car coming when the doctor's machine was within about 150 feet of the bridge and knowing that the bridge was so narrow as to make it dangerous for two cars to pass, Dr. Winsor is said to have slowed up but that Mr. Bailey continued to move at a rapid rate to approach the bridge.

Dr. Winsor said that he saw that it would be impossible to cross the bridge without a collision with Bailey's car and that he put on the brakes, causing his machine to skid, despite the fact that it was equipped with chains.

The Bailey car hit the Winsor machine broadside, turning it completely over. Dr. Winsor said that he was standing practically still when the accident occurred. The impact was so great that it tore the steering wheel from Dr. Winsor's hands, leaving a piece of the wheel in each hand.

A piece of flying debris struck the doctor in the face, inflicting a painful bruise. Both cars were wrecked.

DRUNKEN DRIVER CHASTISED.

Lawrence Dailey, 28 years old, of 48 Miller street, received Severe Treatment for Driving Auto While Intoxicated—Fined and Imprisoned.

Lawrence Dailey, 28 years old, of 48 Miller street, had it plainly impressed upon his mind in City Court, Saturday morning that there is a wide difference between plain public intoxication and driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated. Dailey who has appeared in court before to answer charges of public intoxication, was placed under arrest about 5 o'clock Friday afternoon by Patrolmen Simmons and Crouch after several complaints had been received from residents in the vicinity of Fonda avenue, that an intoxicated man was driving an automobile in that vicinity. He was found by the officers on Wilcox avenue and arrested.

Dailey plead guilty to the charge when arraigned Saturday morning. Judge Van Woert sentenced him to pay a fine of $100, gave him a suspended sentence of six months in the Otsego County jail at Cooperstown, during which period he must report to Judge Van Woert each Saturday night and also revoked both his driver's license and the license for his automobile.

"You have been here before on a charge of public intoxication," said the court, "but I warn you to know that there is a big difference between plain public intoxication and driving an automobile while intoxicated."

Judge Van Woert made it plain that drunken drivers of automobiles need expect no sympathy in his court if they are found guilty of such a charge.

He indicated that he would follow the example set by Justice of the Supreme Court Charles E. Nichols, who handed out a similar sentence to defendant who pleaded guilty to charges of driving while intoxicated, at the recent term of supreme court in Cooperstown.

In the case of Dailey, it appeared that he had purchased a second hand car and that the amount still unpaid on the machine is about the same as the amount of the fine imposed by the court. The court took the position that if the defendant could afford to pay the balance due on his car and could not handle the car in accordance with the law and with some consideration for the safety of others that he might as well pay a fine amounting to what he would pay if he was allowed to drive and that the car should be taken away from him both for his own protection as well as the protection of the general public.

Mr. Spencer, who is a graduate of the Oneonta High School, the Kiskiminetas Springs preparatory school, and Middlebury College, has spent the past three years in New York and Chicago studying art and has attended among others the Metropolitan art school of New York. The Audubon Tyler Art School of Chicago and the Midwest School of Art at Coloma, Michigan. ARRESTED FOR FORGERY.

Thomas Mates Turned Over to Oneonta Police by Schenectady Authorities to Face Charge Growing Out of Check Transaction Nearly Year Ago—Two Other Arrests.

Thomas Mates, formerly of Oneonta and who is said to have been in trouble before due to check transaction, was brought to this city Saturday by Chief of Police Frank N. Horton, after he had been arrested by authorities of Schenectady on a warrant issued in this city, charging forgery in the second degree. The warrant was issued by City Judge Leo D. Van Woert last February.

According to complaint upon which the warrant is based, Mates is accused of forging the name of William Gibbons as drawer, on a check for $15 on the Citizens' National bank of Oneonta, payable to Edward S. Storie.

According to police records, Mates also was arrested on February 4, 1921, on a charge of forgery in which he was accused of forging the name of a dead woman to a check for $150. The arrest took place in Syracuse. According to the record, Mates was allowed to plead guilty to petit larceny on motion of the district attorney and sentence was suspended. He will be arraigned before City Judge Van Woert this morning.

Alfred Smith, of 37 Grand street, was placed under arrest Saturday night about 8 o'clock by James May of 19 Walling avenue and turned over to Patrolman Otto on a charge of disorderly conduct under section 720 of the penal law. Smith, according to May, came home to the apartment which he rents at 37 Grand street, and caused such a disturbance that other persons living in the same house complained to Mr. May, who has charge of the property.

Jack Braden of Franklin was arrested Saturday night by Patrolman Valley on a charge of public intoxication on Bradford and Market street. When searched at headquarters, the police found a bottle of "corn cure" and the police are speculating whether the label means all it imports.

WEST LAURENS MAN FINED.

Harold Strait Sells Articles Stolen from One Neighbor to Another.

West Laurens, Nov. 25.—Last Tuesday, Nov. 18, Harold Strait, who lives near this place, was arrested by Sergeant Cunningham and another State Trooper, for petty larceny. Strait had stolen a log chain and spring wagon seat or John Bryant, a neighbor, and sold them to Mr. Ingerman, another neighbor. He also sold Bryant's bobs to Harry Dunbar for which he received $20 cash, but failed to furnish either the bobs or return the money as he promised to do. A hearing was held before Justice Chas. Gray of Laurens. Strait was severely reprimanded and sentenced to 6 months in the county jail, which sentence was suspended on condition that on Saturday, Nov. 29, he shall pay $5 fine for the Bryant case and $25 for Mr. Dunbar. Bryant has recovered his property. Strait has a wife and two small children.

BRINKMAN-WHEELER

Miss Kathryn Lucile Wheeler and Vicar Brinkman of Hackensack United at Episcopal Church.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized Saturday evening at St. James' church when Kathryn Lucile, daughter of Henry D. Wheeler of 3 Church street, and Victory Brinkman of Hackensack, N. J., son of Dr. and Mrs. M. R. Brinkman of that city, were united in marriage in the presence of a small company of relatives and friends. Following the ceremony and reception held at the home, 3 Church street, the bride and groom left by motor for Hot Springs. The traveling costume of the bride was a brown ensemble suit with hat to match.

Upon their return from their trip the young couple will take up their home in Hackensack, Mr. Brinkman holding a lucrative position with a Patterson, N. J., silk company. A host of Oneonta friends will join with them in Hackensack, home of the groom and former home of the bride, in congratulations and every good wish.

The church was very tastefully decorated with white lilies, carnations, and chrysanthemums, and following a short musical prelude at 8 o'clock the wedding party approached the altar of the church while the Wedding March from Lehar's was being played, where the impressive Episcopal ceremony was performed by Rev. L. Curtis Denney, the bride being given in marriage by her father.

The gown of the bride was of white velvet with a veil of Dutchess and rose point lace. She carried a shower bouquet of orchids, lily of the valley, and sweet peas.

She was attended by her sister, Miss Marjorie Wheeler, whose gown was of fuchsia chiffon and who carried a varied shower bouquet.

The best man was William Brinkman of Hackensack, brother of the groom. Damon Getman of this city, Joseph Duffy of Maywood, N. J., Joseph Stamford of Patterson, N. J., and Arthur Ramee of Hackensack, were the ushers.

Following the ceremony about 50 friends attended the reception held at the home, which also was prettily decorated in palms, oak leaves and chrysanthemums. In the receiving line were Mr. Wheeler, Dr. and Mrs. M. R. Brinkman, the bride and groom, Miss Marjorie Wheeler and William Brinkman.

A dainty wedding dinner was served by Elkhorn's.

Included in the gifts of the bride were rugs, lamps, china, glassware, linen, silver, gold, and a number of checks.

The gift of the bride to the groom was a platinum and gold watch chain and to her maid of honor a Spanish shawl. Those of the groom were a diamond wedding ring to the bride, platinum and gold cuff links to the best man, and gold match cases to the ushers.

Both the bride and groom are talented young people of pleasing personality, with a promising future. Mr. Brinkman already holds a responsible position with a large silk mill, attesting that his capabilities have already been recognized.

Among those from outside of the city in attendance at the ceremony, besides those already mentioned, were Judge G. W. Wheeler and Miss Helen Wheeler of Bridgeport, Conn., Mrs. M. A. Wilson of Skillman, N. J., Mrs. Joseph Stamford and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Whitehead of Patterson, N. J., Mrs. D. J. O'Connell, Miss Barbara O'Connell, Mrs. C. A. Record Breaking Trading Continues, While Home Whitewash Ombsights of Profit-taking and Selling Pressure

New York, Nov. 22.—Record breaking trading in the stock market, which overcame outbreaks of profit-taking and demonstrated its ability to resist selling pressure, featured last week's financial markets. Activity continued at the same terrific pace which has been maintained since election day, with reactionary movements at times impeding the advance, but failing to make much headway. Daily sales continued to average better than 2,000,000 shares.

Bond trading expanded in line with the swollen volume of stock sales, but prices failed to keep pace with the rise in stocks, which reached the highest level in 11 years.

Foreign exchange trading was featured by the return to par of Dutch guilder—the third European currency to get back to parity since the war. Demand sterling held near the year's high level of $4.44 and French francs were slightly higher in reflection of the approaching loan of $100,000,000 to France.

Back to Orphanage

This little two-month-old youngster does not appear the least bit worried over his sudden drop from New York society back to the orphanage from which he had been taken. He is back in Willows, a Kansas City, Kansas, institution, as a result of a New York court's order. The baby is the one Mrs. Lydia Marks maintained was hers in order to collect in the neighborhood of $400,000 from her former husband, Arthur Hudson Marks, New York millionaire. The child, seen here with his nurse, is awaiting another adoption.

MOST VISITED ENGLISH CITY

Liverpool, However, Is Least Known of All by Travelers.

Washington.—The last city to have its civic week at the Wembley Empire exhibition was Liverpool.

"And Liverpool," says a bulletin from the National Geographic society, "has seen more visiting Americans than any other English city, while it is safe to say, these Americans saw less of Liverpool than they did of any other place in Europe."

"They know that the city has miles and miles of docks; that the world in general uploads upon these docks vast quantities of raw materials, no mean part of which are the cargoes of grain, cattle, cotton, tobacco and meats from the United States. They also know that the busy factories of Lancashire, Yorkshire and the Midlands converge their wares upon these docks, pouring out into the world commerce stream shiploads of woven linen, woolen and cotton, machinery and metals.

"The dogs of sixty steamship lines which ply in and out of Liverpool were on display at Wembley. Two other features of the exhibit were horses and art treasures.

"The Liverpool dray horses are famous. Never ending lines of trucks drawn by these handsome, massive animals move along Liverpool's streets between docks and warehouses and railway stations. The trucks are the type known as 'lorries' which originated in this city.

"Annually the city has a spring carnival at which parades of the horses form a principal attraction. At Wembley one Liverpool horse is reported to have registered a pull of 21 tons and with them with a second horse, to have exceeded the capacity of the register, which was 29 tons.

"Coal-Smoked Greek Architecture."

"The art treasures were from Liverpool's museum, wherein may be found a gallery of paintings, an aquarium and a public library. The most beautiful building in the city, however, is not the museum, but St. George's hall, which, even though it has been called a piece of 'coal-smoked Greek architecture,' is impressive for its fine, simple and dignified lines. It was the conception of a twenty-four-year-old architect.

"One of the notable collections of the museum is that of Joseph Mayer, a silversmith, and in this collection is a box of silver coins with a label bearing an interesting story. When the juvenile Joseph was walking with a relative in the fields one day, a plowman turned up several coins. The relative offered the boy a reward if he would decipher the inscriptions. The boy earned that reward and became so interested in coins of that sort that he became a distinguished authority.

"Liverpool once was a city of slums but, even before the World War, the city corporation had begun tearing down unsightly dwellings and putting up low-price tenements for its workers. There are more than 25,000 dock workers here and more unskilled labor and racial strains than in any other city of England. It has an abundance of parks and many of these are partly given over to the ancient game of outdoor bowling, which flourishes here as it does nowhere else in England.

"A novel sight, akin to the old-time curio market in New York, is the spot known as the 'Exchange Flags,' where port merchants transact much of their business during seemingly casual meetings. Liverpool also has a famous institution, the Seaman's Orphanage, known to sea travelers because many of the great liners carry an 'orphanage box' to collect funds for this institution, and some of them give entertainments for its benefit.

"Geography played an unmistakable part in the fate of Liverpool. It is located three miles from the open sea, up the Mersey river, which widens from a width of less than a mile into a three-mile wide basin. King John founded a town here, but even in the early Eighteenth century when its first dock was built, it had only 5,000 people. It engaged in slave traffic with the Spanish Main and played a stellar part in the romantic days of smuggling of rum, sugar and tobacco. Its prosperity really began in 1840, with the establishment of regular steamship services between the Old world and the New.

Part of Many Immigrants.

"None of its principal articles of export to America, up until the time of the World war, were our immigrant citizens. It was a pioneer port of English emigration and, in addition, many of the American immigrants from Spain, France, Russia, Poland and the Baltic region embarked here.

"There are nearly two score countries in Liverpool; that of the United States, it will be recalled, was distinguished by the service of Nathaniel Hawthorne. The Gladstone family have lived here for generations. William Edward Gladstone was born here, and relatives still are active in the city's affairs.

"Birkenhead, across the Mersey, is a busy city and would be known as an important port in its own right, even if it were divorced from its overshadowing neighbor. Though there is a tenuous connection, the ferries between the two cities constitute the busiest in England."

Albany, Nov. 23.—The Public Service commission has decided to require all persons or corporations operating bus lines in New York state, outside of Greater New York, to make certain changes in buses in the interest of the safety of occupants in case of fire or accident.

Orders will be served on the bus operators requiring them by January 1, next, to provide that:

Each bus operated shall be so equipped that the gasoline tank shall be outside the bus body and that holding the tank with gasoline must be from outside each bus, and,

That each bus must be provided with an emergency exit to be used in case of accident or fire, this requirement to apply only to buses having one entrance or exit, the additional exit to be so constructed that it can not be opened accidentally.

Necessity for an additional exit is in case of fire in the bus interior or in the engine compartment. Some buses are so built that gasoline must be placed in the tank from within the car, the intake being located in some instances near the only car exit. This action by the commission is in the interest of safety of bus riders to make this means of latter day transportation as safe as possible. Many bus operators are given authority by cities, towns and villages to operate without any requirement for protecting the passengers in case of fire or accident.
